The club boasts the Ferndale suite with a capacity of 200 people (112 seated), so that no-one needs to miss out on the fun. A variety of hire packages enable you to get as much out of this space as you want. The only limit is your imagination and budget!

The Conservative Club is well prepared for catering demands of your wedding party. The highly trained kitchen staff are able to cater for everything from a simple finger buffet with a selection of hot and cold drinks to a four course meal with fine wines and bubbly.

If you are seeking inspiration for your special day then look no further than the Westbury Conservative Club.

Erlestone Golf Club
Erlestone Golf Club between Westbury and Devizes has established a reputation for hosting superb weddings.

The room holds up to 70 people for a traditional wedding layout (no table facing the other guests) so could not be considered large but the facilities and attention to detail offered by the club may entice you to limit your guest list a little. For the evening, Erlestone can accommodate up to 200 guests for a buffet and disco or even live music, again the selection of drinks offered will tempt every palate.

The function room is located on the first floor and has fantastic panoramic views of the golf course and surrounding countryside, a large balcony is available to welcome guests and enjoy a pre-lunch drink.

At Erlestone they believe that each wedding is unique and while they have suggested menus for you to peruse, the choice is entirely up to you.

If you are looking for the ideal venue to host a smaller wedding Erlestone has got to be on your list of venues to check out. Please call 01380 831069 or do 'pop in' for a coffee and a chat.

Westbury Leigh Community Hall
Westbury Leigh Community Hall offers an unusual attraction for weddings.

The hall is actually inside Holy Saviour Church: the nave was converted to a hall, while the chancel remains a church, used for regular Sunday services. So the happy couple can enjoy a traditional wedding in the church, then step straight into the reception in the next room.

There is a fully equipped kitchen, and the hall can seat up to a hundred guests.

The church was built in the 1870s, but "after the style of the ancient village churches in the county of Wiltshire" so that to a casual glance it looks 13th century. The fine tower was added in 1889, and a stylish clock was installed as recently as 2007.

Since conversion, the hall has been in constant use for a wide range of activities including bingo, quizzes, parties, concerts, markets, bridge, dances, yoga and various exercise classes. There is also a separate upper room, ideal for smaller classes and events.

The dual use of the building has been a great success, and it is a real focus for the village as well as an attractive facility for people from further afield.

For more information or to book an appointment or give them a call on 01373 825151 or just call in.

Andy Fletcher Photography
For me photographing a wedding is all about being in that moment; capturing the joy, nerves, laughter and tears, as they happen.

It's always about you and making sure, so I try to be as unobtrusive and hands off as possible. My favourite weddings are relaxed and fun ones, as I think this suits my style of photography best. I don't really set anything up, I work calmly and naturally without intruding into the day, I prefer to capture people's natural reactions and emotions.

For a short time in the day we will go off for a little wander. It's actually a nice opportunity for you to wedding, birthday, retirement, or hold an event, we have the facility for you.
